

ABA Roundtable: Copyright Protection in the Internet Age

---

Noon – 1 p.m. | Briggs and Morgan, Minneapolis | 1.0 CLE Credit Applied For
December 18, 2008

Briggs shareholder Michael M. Lafeber will moderate a panel discussion featuring Briggs shareholder James J. Long and University of Minnesota Law School professor Thomas Cotter for the ABA Intellectual Property Roundtable, “Copyright Protection in the Internet Age: Google e-Library Settlement and Beyond.”

This panel discussion and roundtable will review the recent copyright infringement class action lawsuit brought against Google by the Association of American Publishers and the Author’s Guild. The proposed settlement and its impact on future copyright litigation will also be discussed. For the discussion outline, click here.

One hour of CLE credit has been applied for. There is no cost to attend and lunch will be provided. Please R. S.V.P. by e-mail to Michael Lafeber by Dec. 10.